

Explorations of the Highlands of the Brazil, Vol. 2: With a Full Account of the Gold and Diamond Mines; Also, Canoeing Down 1500 Miles of the Great ... From Sabara to the Sea (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Explorations of the Highlands of the Brazil, Vol. 2: With a Full Account of the Gold and Diamond Mines; Also, Canoeing Down 1500 Miles of the Great River Sao Francisco, From Sabara to the Sea Wednesday, August 7, 1867. - We walked down to the Porto da Ponte Grande, where the ajojo or raft lay. I never saw such an old Noahs Ark, with its standing awning, a floating gipsy pal, some seven feet high and twenty-two long, and pitched like a tent upon two hollowed logs. The river must indeed be safe, if this article can get down without accident. All the notables of the place witnessed the process of embarkation. Miss Dundas broke the bottle with all possible grace upon the bows, and christened my craft the Brig Eliza, and two pair of slippers were duly thrown at my head. Many vivas were given and returned, and all embarked for a trial-trip shall I call it, with the Royal Geographical Society, a tentative expedition - of a couple of miles. When the fifteen souls came on board, they sunk the article some three palms, and deluged the port platform, making the headman, or pilot, Manoel de Assump?ao Vieira, very nervous - already he began to predict swamping, going down in a jiffey, and being dashed to pieces by the rapids.
