

Depression, Love, & Swimming Pools

Cale might be the younger brother, but he is also the rescuer, the one who fixes everything. When he comes home for a visit he finds his brother Derrick floating in the pool their father committed suicide in years before, unwilling to leave. Cale confronts his brother's depression head-on while dealing with his own demons, leading them to an unexpected shift in their relationship. Cale and Derrick will never be the same again...and maybe that's a good thing. This piece confronts the topics of suicide, depression, loss, recovery, and incest. It contains graphic scenes. Not intended for young readers. This is a 9,000 word short story.
