

Becoming Sane

When right and wrong are no longer clear, life-changing decisions must still be made. The year is 1985. Living in a Mexican desert hacienda south of Nogales, fifteen year old Sane is trapped in a life she didn't choose for herself, frightened and frustrated by it all. Her father is Tony Masone, an American running one of the most lucrative cocaine trades south of the border. Her mother Liz, is twice as dangerous and as conniving as they come. As the money pours in, greed begins to rear its ugly head. Listening from within the compound walls, Sane overhears a plot to murder her father and overtake his drug empire. This dangerous twist of fate places Sane directly in the middle of a daring game of cat and mouse. Soon she realizes she stands between her parents, and while she may have a chance to save one, she may also be forced to turn on the other. At what cost might freedom come? Sane must make the choices of a lifetime-surrounded by unimaginable events, kidnapping and even murder to determine her own outcome, and to take a chance on a normal life. Testing the limits of her own courage and loyalty, she'll be torn between what's right and what's wrong, while learning more than she ever wanted to know of danger and hate but also of love and happiness.
