

Moving Forward: The Past and the Future

Growth in Life and in Christ The life you live is not your life to give We look at the world, but our eyes are closed The unsaved one doesnt want us to see He doesnt want to be exposed. In Moving Forward, Paul Jones gives the reader an inspiring and engaging collection of thoughts, emotions, reflections, and characters. Each poem and short story has a message crafted to move readers spiritually and intellectually. This collection includes the authors own favorite short story, the continuing tale of Jake, who has to continue his journey of learning as he settles down to a life with Cleo...but fate has some twists in store for them. A Cry for Help is an important commentary on our self-involved world, telling the story of Karen, who tries to get the attention of those around her who are too busy to listen, with tragic results leading to humility and redemption for her loved ones. Moving Forward is a memorable reading experience, bringing life and light to themes both universal and personal.
