

Hero and Leander (Annotated)

This unique annotated edition includes: A biography of Christopher Marlowe and background on Elizabethan England An Introduction to Marlowes Hero and Leander, and the myths origins A New Description of the unfinished epic Omission of George Chapman and Henry Petowes endings Functioning line numbers for critical writing and discussion Fossilized spelling and removal of numerous printing errorsThe waters of the narrow Hellespont divide Leander and Hero. Hero of Sestos is a handmaiden in the service of the goddess Venus. At the festival commemorating the love of Venus and Adonis she is spotted by Leander of Abydos. Cupid shoots them both with his arrow and the two fall deeply in love. Will Heros vow of chastity keep the two young lovers apart? Its sink or swim as Leander strips down and dives into the treacherous waters of the Hellespont to have a moonlight tryst with Hero. This little epic or classical epyllion was written by poet and playwright Christopher Marlowe. It was first published in 1598.
