

She Twerks Hard For The Money (Things You Cant Tell Mama)

Tamesha Green is determined to make sure that she and her child are taken care of even if it means dancing at a strip club is one of the multiple jobs she holds down to make ends meet. After her husband betrayed her in the ultimate way Tamesha divorced him and began a life as a single mother. Tamesha sacrificed a lot for Jamal because she interrupted her college education, moved away from her family and followed him to his home town. Tamesha would get pregnant by and later marry Jamal before she found out about secrets from his past and ongoing betrayals that caused her to end their marriage. Needing money fast caused Tamesha to try stripping as a way to supplement her income, but she hid her situation from her family until one of them just happened to come into the strip club on a night she was dancing and found out about her side job in a shocking fashion. Tamesha seemed to be on her way to obtaining her long delayed college degree and changing her life when her past came back to haunt her in ways she would never expect. Would the skeletons in her closet and demons from her past keep Tamesha down or would she triumph over them and build a better future for herself and her daughter?
