Having been a Pre-Health advisor at a large university with a substantial Pre-Health student body and now an independent consulting advisor, I've worked with thousands of students all clamoring to get into medical or dental school, and I've seen a lot. Arguably, I've likely seen it all. I've seen the hopefulness, the stress, the fears, the tears, the frustration, and the happiness. I've been there for the hugs and the long talks. I've helped students at every stage in the process, even mentoring students post-professional school as they seek residencies and going into practice. From all of this, I can tell you one fundamental truth. Every single one of you is a real person with a real story to tell and your dreams are valid and achievable.
