

Sheriff on the Spot (The Powder Valley Westerns)

Hours before his retirement, Powder Valleys chief lawman stumbles upon a deadly scheme Pat Stevens never wanted to be sheriff. But when old Ed Grimes was killed, Pat was the only man in Powder Valley with a quick enough gun hand to avenge his predecessors death and take on the badge. Now, after years of wearing the silver star, Pat is too old to continue to risk his neck. He only has a few hours before a new sheriff takes overbut a lot of blood can flow in a short amount of time. A well-dressed con artist steps off the stagecoach into the sheriffs office. Mistaking Pat for the replacement officer, he hints at an evil bargain between sheriff and thiefa scheme of murderous corruption that could destroy Pats closest friend. Pat has just a few hours to stop the killers, and hell do it with or without his badge.
