

Sunset Pass, Through Apache Land: (Charles King Masterpiece Collection)

Better take my advice, sir. The road ahead is thick with the Patchies. But you have come through all alone, my friend; why should I not go? I have been stationed among the Apaches for the last five years and have fought them all over Arizona. Surely I ought to know how to take care of myself. I don't doubt that, captain. It's the kids I'm thinking of. The renegades from the reservation are out in great numbers now and they are supposed to be all down in the Tonto Basin, but I've seen their moccasin tracks everywhere from the Colorado Chiquito across the Mogeyone, and I'm hurrying in to Verde now to give warning and turn the troops this way. Well, why didn't they attack you, then, Al? The party thus addressed by the familiar diminutive of Al paused a moment before reply, an odd smile flitting about his bearded lips. A stronger, firmer type of scout and frontiersman than Al Sieber never sat in saddle in all Arizona in the seventies, and he was a noted character among the officers, soldiers, pioneers, and Apaches.
