

The Light That Failed, Vol. 1 of 2 (Classic Reprint)

I'm not afraid Maisie strode forward swiftly, a hand in her pocket and her chin in the air Dick followed with a small pinfire revolver. The children had discovered that their lives would be unendurable without pistol -practice. After much forethought and self denial, Dick had saved seven shillings and sixpence, the price of a badly constructed Belgian revolver. Maisie could only contribute half a crown to the syndicate for the purchase of a hundred cartridges. You can save better than I can, Dick she explained; I like nice things to eat, and it doesnt matter to you. Besides, boys ought to do these things Dick grumbled a little at the arrangement, but went out and made the purchases, which the children were then on their way to test Revolvers did not lie in the scheme of their daily life as decreed for them by the guardian who was correctly supposed to stand in the place of a mother to these two orphans. Dick had been under her care for six years, during which time she had made her profit of the allowances supposed to be expended on his clothes, and, partly through thoughtlessness, partly through a natural desire to pain, she was a widow of some years anxious to marry again, had made his days burdensome on his young shoulders. Where he had looked for love, she gave him first aversion and then hate.(Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and dont occur in the book.)About the Publisher Forgotten Books is a publisher of historical writings, such as: Philosophy, Classics, Science, Religion, History, Folklore and Mythology.Forgotten Books Classic Reprint Series utilizes the latest technology to regenerate facsimiles of historically important writings.
